BC Wildfire Update: July 24, 2017

Updated as of 4:00 PM, Monday July 24, 2017

Note: We apologize for any discrepancy in information. Information is sourced from various Provincial/Federal updates. Please do not hesitate to contact us if you have any revisions

Updates:

- As of Monday July 24, 2017, there are approximately 153 wildfires burning across B.C. 22 of these fires are considered “wildfires of note”. No significant growth is being reported at the fires at this time.
- Although the weather has turned a bit cooler with rainfall in areas throughout the Province, generally the weather is expected to remain hot and dry for the immediate future, and British Columbia is planning for a minimum 60-90-day response period.
- 20 First Nations communities are affected by the wildfires (15 evacuated, 2 under alert, 2 hosting evacuees and 1 undertaking wildland firefighting preparation activities).
- Residents of Princeton, 100 Mile House, 108 Mile House and Horse Lake were able to return home this past weekend, the communities remain on evacuation alert.
- Planning for re-entry is currently underway for communities at and around Williams Lake, updates to follow as information becomes available. Communities can assist or obtain information by calling their regional PREOC center.
- Evacuees are eligible for financial assistance for a second payment of 600$.
- Costs to the Province are estimated to be $125.8 million, with 4082 firefighters fighting the fires. Many of these fire fighters are based out of province, and in various parts of the world such as New Zealand and Australia.
- 47,412 people have registered with Red Cross to date.
- The powwow grounds at Tk'emlups te Secwepmec (Kamloops) remain open for evacuees. The grounds provide showers, RV space and food. Tk'emlups te Secwepmec may have space for livestock, as well as resources such as water and hay. For information call Ron @ (250) 819-8012. Approximately 500-600 people are on site. First Aid and mental health support services are available.
- Tk'emlups Powwow Grounds are also providing Status Card services for those in need.
